EDITOR'S LETTER

I'll be honest: When I got my second shot of the Pfizer vaccine at a hospital in Sunset Park, Brooklyn, last February, I thought we'd be in better shape come fall. Most of us did, probably. But even as the Delta variant, underwhelming vaccination numbers, rising caseloads, and ever-changing regulations keep us mired in a degree of uncertainty, I think it's important to remember that we are not back at square one. People call it the corona-coaster for a reason, and while this latest plunge might be a bit stomach-churning, the end of the ride is still getting closer.

And, importantly, because we do have vaccines now and a better if still imperfect understanding of how to manage COVID-19 than we did a year and a half ago, travel is possible in ways that it simply wasn't for most of 2020. Yes, there are places you can't or shouldn't go; yes, your travel experience might be colored in certain ways by the pandemic; and yes, you run a greater risk of being inconvenienced than in Normal Times, but speaking for myself, that's all worth it to recapture the joy of travel, as I've done repeatedly this summer, to Hawaii, Las Vegas, and the length of the Eastern Seaboard. Those experiences make me beyond excited for the next trips I've got in the works, from Yellowstone to South Korea.

This is our Readers' Choice Awards issue, the 34th in our history, which means it is both a record of the joy you take from travel—the places and experiences that have meant the most to you—and a tool for continuing to find that joy. Use it well. To help you do so, we've also included a guide to traveling more consciously, something that matters more than ever as we contemplate a World After COVID-19. It's full of tips about how to positively impact the places you visit, perhaps none more valuable than this reminder from PBS host Ernest White II, a member of Condé Nast Traveler's advisory board: "Grace starts within each of us." As we go forth into the world again, let's be sure never to forget that.

Last year, we kicked off our annual Readers' Choice Awards by acknowledging that, with voters stuck at home, the 2020 list was a unique testament to the most enduring things in travel. Last year's winners were properties and places, airlines and cruise ships, that travelers yearned for when traveling wasn't possible. Fast-forward 12 months, and our 34th annual RCA list reflects the ways the world of travel has begun to welcome back guests. For even while restrictions remain in place and uncertainty about the future persists, we are traveling again. Borders have reopened. Cruises are getting passengers safely back on certain seas. Flight routes have been reinstated. So the following pages are filled with what you, the greatest and most discerning travel critics out there, longed for when you couldn't travel and decided to do first once you could. And in 2021, for the first time, we asked you for your thoughts, feelings, and behavioral changes regarding traveling now. Exactly 20,031 of you filled out our Year in Travel survey, and you'll find some of what you told us in the pages that follow. We hope that everything you discover in this year's RCAs, here and online, helps you focus on your future travels. Because even as we navigate our way through the pandemic, we're all thinking about where to go next. CNT EDITORS

METHODOLOGY The Condé Nast Traveler Readers' Choice Awards survey was made available through a secure website at cntraveler.com/vote. This year's tabulation of results from hundreds of thousands of respondents who submitted ratings during the sweepstakes period of April 1 through May 31, 2021, was done by Condé Nast. The questionnaire contained lists of candidates in various categories (cities, hotels, etc.). Candidates must receive a required minimum number of responses and a minimum overall rating to be eligible for a Readers' Choice Award. Candidates are judged on a set of criteria relevant to their category, based on a standard five-point scale converted to a percentage: excellent, very good, good, fair, and poor. The average of these ratings determines the final score based on four decimal points, with two decimal points being published. (Ties are determined by four decimal points.) For example, the score of 99.71 for Senses Lanai, A Four Seasons Resort, the No. 1 resort in Hawaii, represents the average of ratings the hotel received from respondents for all relevant criteria: rooms, service, food, design, location, and activities/facilities.
